It Didn't Seem Possible

Look at the Other Fellow!

In the spring of 1919 an old man sat writing his memoirs. They were war memoirs, naturally, of the war just closed. The man was Eric von Ludendorff, the great quartermaster-general of the German armies, a military genius who was soon to prove himself a political dud. "The unified war strength which the United States had sent over to France in the months of April, May and June," he wrote, "was, according to our advance information, estimated at about 15 divisions. In time, a total of about 20 American divisions were to be in France."

Pan-American Pact Expected Within 2 Days

Informants Sure Republics Will Break Relations With Axis

RIO DE JANEIRO—(P)—A unanimous break in relations with Axis powers by the twenty-one American Republics within two days was predicted Tuesday by a high functionary of the Pan-American conferences. The informant who declined to be quoted by name said Argentina's attitude had been radically modified after her foreign minister, Dr. Enrique Ruiz Guinazu, talked Monday with Brazil's foreign minister, Oswaldo Aranha. There were high hopes that Ruiz Guinazu would abandon his isolationist position completely. Argentina and Chile have been the lone holdouts but observers expressed the belief that Chile would follow the Argentina lead.

All-Time Seal Sales Record

$1,024 Grossed From Seals in Hempstead County

The chairman for the Hempstead county 1941 Christmas seal sale, Talbot Field, Jr., Tuesday announced the final figures on the sale of Christmas seals. The following statement was released: The gross receipts from the entire county totaled $1,024.76. This is by far the greatest sum ever raised in Hempstead county through the Christmas seal sale. Prior to this splendid response by the people of Hempstead county the highest contribution during the past 12 years prior to 1941 was $308.54. For the 11 years prior to 1941 the average yearly contribution was $181.54. As a result of the liberal purchase of seals this year our county for the first time will have funds during this year to carry on essential tuberculosis work.

To everyone who participated in the Seal Sale and helped to achieve this year's result I am grateful, but I feel that special mention should be made of the following chairmen whose outstanding and unselfish assistance contributed largely to the success of this year's sale: Mrs. J. J. Bruce, Blevins; Mrs. Elizabeth Horton, Washington; Mrs. Graydon Anthony, McCaskill; Miss Virginia Holt, Tokio; Rev. J. E. Hammit and Mrs. Remmel Young, Hope.

Many of the public schools of the city and county exceeded by far previous sale figures. The Hope High School students bought $56.80 worth of seals, followed by Paisley school with $12.00, Oglesby with $11.20 and Brookwood with $9.00. The only other school in the county, other than the Colored Training School at Blevins, which really entered into the spirit of the sale was the Blevins Public School which contributed $20.54.

The negroes of Hope contributed $18.15 of which $4.07 came from the Yerger High School. Dr. R. C. Lewis served as chairman. The Blevins Training School, colored, exceeded by far the Yerger High School and almost overcame the total colored contribution of Hope. The Training School's contribution was $13.00.

Below appears the final totals from over the county:

Blevins	$65.25
Washington	32.33
McCaskill	26.31
Tokio	8.00
Bingen	8.00
Palmos	7.75
Columbus	7.64
Fulton	6.75
Ozan	6.45
DeAnn	6.35

Germans Said to Be Withdrawing Troops in Norway for Russian Front

By the Associated Press
Russia's armies, executing a gigantic criss-cross movement, are reported to have further narrowed the "escape corridor" of 100,000 German troops at Moshaisk Tuesday and smashed at Adolf Hitler's winter defense lines at two important points.

The battle for Kharkov, major industrial city in the Ukraine, was also reported to have a decisive phase. Soviet forces have stormed across the Luma river, 75 miles north of Moscow, threatening the pressure above Moshaisk while other Russian forces have intercepted the road to Warsaw, 140 miles southwest of Moscow, it was reported.

The Russians threw thousands of freshly trained Siberian troops into the battle as reports said the thermometer dropped to 25 degrees below zero and the peak of the Russian winter approached.

Withdrawing From Norway
BERN, Switzerland—(P)—German forces in Norway are being withdrawn for service on the Russian front and are being replaced by older men a dispatch from Stockholm to the Basler Nachrichten it was declared Tuesday.

2 SPG League Games Played

CQM, A&E (Field) Victorious on Monday Night

Two crucial games in the Southwestern Proving Ground Basketball League were played last night in the Hope high school gymnasium at 7:30. In the first game the C. Q. M. won over the Accounting Department by a score of 37 to 30. The high scorers in this game were Ellen (C. Q. M.) and Campbell (Accounting Dept.) each contributing 14 points. Yokum of the C. Q. M. team ranked next with 13 points. There were 18 personal fouls by the Accounting Dept. and 13 by the C. Q. M. The great number of fouls would indicate a rough game, but this was not so as the play was handled by the referee and the umpire.

The tussle was very close until the C. Q. M. team rallied in the last few minutes and took a commanding lead. Every member of each team played a part of this exciting game.

The second game between the A. & E. (Field) team and the Engineers (contractor) ended with a close score of 54 to 43 in the A. & E. (Field) team's favor. This was also a very close game and was well played. The score remained until the closing moments when the A. & E. team pulled away to lead 11 points when the final gun sounded. A feature of this game was the fact that Fleming of the A. & E. team was down several times, but never had to leave the game.

A third game scheduled to be played was forfeited by the Gas & Oil team to the A. & E. (Office) squad. The present standings of the members of the league are as follows:

Team	Won	Lost	Pts.
A. & E. (Field)	8	2	333
Engs. & Contr.	7	3	311
Acct. Dept.	7	3	290
C. Q. M.	5	5	247
A. & E. (Office)	2	8	200
Gas & Oil	1	9	100

Simple Gadget Ends Gas-Light Worry

BALTIMORE—(P)—Walter E. Bartholomew, a Baltimore gas-light tender with an inventive turn of mind, has found a solution to Baltimore's biggest blackout problem: How to turn out 17,000 individually-operated gas street lights when the air raid warning sounds.

Civilian defense officials, preparing for the city's initial blackout test in mid-February, had ordered metal hoods which would be lowered over each lamp.

Churchill Talks With Confidence

Tells Commons That Pacific Victory Will Come

LONDON—(P)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill confronting a restive House of Commons informed its members Tuesday that he shared their anxiety about operations in the Pacific but told them he had "growing confidence in eventual victories there."

Announcing that a 3-day debate would be held soon on the war situation the Prime Minister also showed evidence of equal confidence in his personal strength.

Addressing Parliament for the first time since his return from the historic conference in Washington and Ott was the Prime Minister offered to call for a vote of confidence if the debate should disclose any challenge to his government.

New Picture at Saenger

'One Foot in Heaven' to Open Here Wednesday

"One Foot in Heaven," the Fredric March-Martha Scott co-starring film which comes to the Saenger theater Wednesday has something brand new to offer in the way of screen entertainment. Based on the best-selling novel by Hartwell Spence, it tells the story of a "practical parson" and his family in the first part of the century.

There is humor, warmth and the spirit of abiding faith in the story of the man who served God nobly, with one foot in the heaven and the other very solidly on the ground. His was no Sunday job, but an all-week job of solving the problems, easing the sorrows, sharing the joys of his congregation. In his tasks he was ably assisted by his wife who stood by him in all times of stress and subtly engineered him into the right decision in many of his problems. To their three very human youngsters fell the task of serving as models for the children of the congregation, and the job wasn't always an easy one. Romance and drama and rich humor were integral parts of the Spence family life and they are integral parts of the motion picture.

Besides March and Miss Scott the talented cast includes Frankie Thomas, Elizabeth Fraser, Harry Davenport, Beulah Bondi, Moroni Olsen, Vera Lewis, Jerome Cowan, Ernest Cossart, Nana Bryant, Roscoe Ates and dozens of others. Casey Robinson adapted Spence's book for the screen and Irving Rapper directed the production.

Classification for Auto Tires

Board Urges Citizens to Classify Themselves

Dorsey McRae, Sr., chairman of the Hempstead county tire rationing board Tuesday appealed to local citizens to classify themselves and avoid needless applications for tires or tubes. Eligibility classification rules follow:

No certificate shall be issued unless the applicant for the certificate certifies that the tire or tube for which application is made is to be mounted:

- (a) On a vehicle which is operated by a physician, surgeon, visiting nurse, or a veterinary, and which is used principally for professional services;
- (b) On an ambulance;
- (c) On a vehicle used exclusively for one or more of the following purposes:

1. To maintain fire fighting services;
 2. To maintain necessary public police services;
 3. To enforce such laws as relate specifically to the protection of public health and safety;
 4. To maintain garbage disposal and other sanitation services;
 5. To maintain mail services.
- (d) On a truck operated exclusively for one or more passengers, operated exclusively for one or more of the following purposes:

1. Transportation of passengers as part of the services rendered to the public by a regular transportation system;
2. Transportation of students and teachers to and from school;
3. Transportation of employees to or from any industrial or mining establishment or construction project, except when public transportation facilities are readily available;
- (e) On a truck operated exclusively for one or more of the purposes stated in the preceding sections or for one or more of the following purposes:

1. Transportation of ice and of fuel;
2. Transportation of material and equipment for the building and maintaining of public roads;
3. Transportation of material and equipment for the construction and maintenance of public utilities;
4. Transportation of material and equipment for the construction and maintenance of production facilities;
5. Transportation of material and equipment for the construction of defense housing facilities and military and naval establishments;
6. Transportation essential to rendering of plumbing, heating and electrical repair services;
7. Transportation by any common carrier;
8. Transportation of waste and scrap materials;
9. Transportation of raw materials, semi-manufactured goods, and finished products, including farm products and foods, provided that no certificate shall be issued for a new tire or tube to be mounted on a truck used (a) for the transportation of commodities to the ultimate consumer for personal, family or household use; or (b) for transportation of materials for construction and maintenance except to the extent specifically provided by subsections 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 of this section (c).
- (f) On farm tractors or other farm implements other than automobiles or trucks for the operation of which rubber-

Enemy Patrols Move Nearer to Singapore

Chinese Report 10,000 Jap Casualties Alone in Malaya

SINGAPORE—(P)—Japanese patrols and landing parties swarming along 30 miles of the west coast belt which reaches to within 60 miles of Singapore Island were putting heavy pressure upon the defenders including newly arrived Australians Tuesday while their airforce engaged in what the British called an "indiscriminate" bombing of the fortress city.

Despite the courageous stand of the Australians rushed to the west coast to stem the infiltration tactics, Tuesday's communique said the Japanese were very active along the entire coastal front from the Muar river, 80 miles north of this island to Batu Pahat, barely 60 miles away.

On the East coast two Japanese parties penetrated nearer their objectives and were reported to have reached the Andau area, 75 miles from Johore strait, the last most defending this fortified island.

10,000 Jap Casualties
CHUNGKING—(P)—Chinese intelligence reports said Tuesday that 5,000 wounded Japanese were crowding the hospitals of Saigon in French Indo China and urns containing the ashes of another 5,000 dead were awaiting shipment to Japan and attested to the high cost of Japanese conquests on the road to Singapore.

Rabaul Attacked
MELBOURNE, Australia—(P)—A full-scale air attack on Rabaul in Australia mandated, "New Britain, north of Australia," was launched Tuesday as Japanese bombers escorted by fighters, an official announcement said Tuesday.

The announcement said the raiders presumably were striking from an aircraft carrier.

Sabang Pounded
BATAVIA—(P)—Six Japanese bombers smashing both at town and harbor pounded for 40 minutes Monday at the port of Sabang, on the island of Celebes in the heaviest of scattered aerial attack, the Dutch announced Tuesday.

A communique said damage was slight in the attack. Dutch fliers striking back at the Japanese invaders of Sarawak were said to have caused damage and spread fires on an airfield at Kuching, capital of the British possession on the island of Borneo.

Another Burma Break Through
LONDON—(P)—Reuters said Tuesday night that the Indian radio at Madras reported another enemy penetration of southern Burma, this time by Thai forces fighting for Japan.

The radio said Japanese air forces had renewed their assault both on Rangoon and Moulmein during the past 24 hours.

Warplanes of the United Nations, it added, have been over enemy occupied territory on aerial scouting mission throughout Tuesday.

The Burmese frontier was said to have been crossed in the vicinity of Myawardi, about 60 miles northeast of Moulmein, and the radio reported that the fighting was still in progress north of that town near the border of Japanese occupied Thailand.

Ouachita to Play All-Star Team on Bobcat Court

The Ouachita College Tigers, tops in Arkansas basketball circles, will play an all-star team here Thursday night at 8 o'clock with proceeds going to the Hempstead County Red Cross emergency fund drive.

Members of the all-star team are local boys and others employed on the Southwestern Proving Ground.

On Friday night the Bobcats will take on North Little Rock on the local court.

Senator Caraway to Launch Submarine

WASHINGTON—(P)—Aides of Senator Caraway (D. Ark.) said Tuesday that she had accepted an invitation from Secretary of Navy Knox to sponsor the submarine Sawfish at its launching, scheduled at Portsmouth, N. H., Navy yards on July 16.

Daylight Saving Bill Is Signed

Law to Become Effective at 2 a. m. February 9

WASHINGTON—(P)—President Roosevelt signed the Daylight Saving Time bill Tuesday to become effective at 2 a. m. on the morning of February 9 for all interstate commerce and federal government activities.

During the congressional debate on the measure it was assumed the observance of daylight time by moving all clocks ahead would become general throughout the nation.

The measure will become inoperative 6 months after the war ends unless terminated by congressional vote.

Arkansas Pledged
LITTLE ROCK—(P)—Gov. Homer M. Adkins said Tuesday that Arkansas would comply generally with the national daylight savings law.

He said the state would go along with the rest of the nation in carrying out the program authorized by congress at the president's request.

FDR Considered Major Prophet

Often Quoted About War in Washington Circles

WASHINGTON—In the small capital groups that assemble in Washington these days around the luncheon tables, over cocktails, or on "off evenings," a visitor would be impressed by the great number of times President Roosevelt is quoted as one of the major prophets of this war who has been almost invariably right.

It is something that has nothing to do with politics, with factional fights, with approval of disapproval of domestic policies. It is an expression of confidence by friend and foe alike, that in the theater of world affairs and international conflict, the President has done a neat piece of turn-calling.

What Winston Churchill stood in the Senate chamber not so long ago and said that by 1945 the democracies would be able to take the initiative, those words were considered through out the world—and rightly so—with special gravity.

But in the days since then, there are many in those small Washington circles who remember President Roosevelt said all that and more way back last summer. They are wondering now if he didn't anticipate himself by more than four months—and if he didn't thus say in August what the United States would come to full awareness of in January.

It was at a sweltering Tuesday afternoon press conference. The President, looking back in shirt-sleeves, began what at first seemed a rambling discourse on the state of the nation and the world. He used, as he often does, that indirect method—drawing parallels from other days and other crises. He talked of World War I continuing through 1943 and said plainly that the people of the United States were not yet aware of the staggering task ahead of them.

Then he shifted to a quotation from Carl Sandburg's great biography of Lincoln. The time was 1862, September. The Union had suffered some of its severest reverses. The Battle of Antietam—the bloodiest single day of fighting of the war—was just over. Lincoln was talking to a delegation of women, headed by Mrs. Harry A. Livermore of Chicago. President Roosevelt used the Civil War President's direct quotes.

"I have no word of encouragement to give," was the slow, blunt reply (from Mr. Lincoln). "The military situation is far from bright and the country knows it as well as I do."

"The President went on: 'The fact is the people have not yet made up their minds that we are at war with the South. They have not buckled down to fight this war through: for they have got the idea into their heads that we are going to get out of this somehow by strategy! That's the word—STRATEGY! General McClellan thinks he is going to whip the rebels by strategy; and the army yhas got the same notion. They have no idea that the war is to be carried on and put through by hard, tough fighting, that it will hurt somebody; and

Cruiser Sunk, Tanker Hit by U. S. Bombers

Attack Made Off Philippines; Fighting Reported on Mindanao

WASHINGTON—(P)—The War Department said Tuesday that American bombers sank a Japanese cruiser and scored direct hits on a tanker, leaving the latter in flames, 100 miles off Jolo in the southern Philippines.

Three enemy airplanes were shot down as the Japanese renewed their attack on General Douglas MacArthur's forces on Luzon, the department communique also said.

Fighting on Mindanao
At the same time the first indication for many days that the Japanese were still opposed by American forces on the island of Mindanao came in a report from General MacArthur that sharp fighting was in progress between Philippine troops and Japanese forces about 35 miles north of Davao, which is on the southern end of the Mindanao island.

The attack on the Japanese cruiser and tanker was carried out by six U. S. army bombers.

Total 40 Jap Ships Sunk
Sinking of the cruiser raised to 40 the total of Japanese warcraft and other vessels sunk by the U. S. military and naval actions.

Word of the successful bomber attack on the Japanese cruiser was received as depth bombs made the Atlantic coastal waters unhealthy hunting ground for Axis submarine raiders, although for the present the Navy was keeping mum on the subject of enemy mortality.

Waste Paper Collection Plan

Scouts to Gather Paper From Homes Thursday Night

On this Thursday night, January 22, Boy Scouts and their leaders will attempt to collect paper from front porches of all homes in Hope according to announcement made by the committee in charge of this responsibility.

S. E. McGregor and Jack Lowe, with troops 58 and 67, will collect in ward 1; Clyde Coffee, with troop 62, will collect in ward 2; and Hendrix Spraggins and his boys from troop 66, will collect in wards 3 and 4.

The following paper collecting plan will be followed in the future and all residents are urged to observe same:

1. Paper will be collected Thursday night, January 22, and only every fourth Thursday thereafter. In the event of rain, it may be impractical to collect and a later date will be announced in the paper.
2. All residents having surplus paper are requested to separate the magazines from the news print, put in a bundle and set on their porch near the steps on the announced collection date.
3. If for some reason, this paper is not collected according to plan, the scouts should collect four weeks later as announced.
4. Persons are requested not to call any one about oversights as it is practically impossible to completely accommodate the large number of houses in Hope.
5. Waste paper is not picked up promptly, residents may take it to Garrett's gin where it is being pressed and dump it out on the platform. It will be credited to the boy scouts.
6. Individuals, business houses, and institutions throughout the county are invited to bring their surplus paper to Garrett's gin where it is being baled for government war needs.
7. The boy scouts to date have collected twenty-four 500-pound bales of paper in their defense drive. The public is urged to save their old paper and cardboard boxes and cooperate fully in this war effort.

Cranium Crackers

Remember?
"Remember Pearl Harbor" rings across the land as the No. 1 U. S. slogan in World War II. Other slogans, movie and song titles and quotations have used "remember" as a key word. How many of these can you remember and identify.

1. "Remember the Maine."
2. "Remember the Night."
3. "Remember the Day."
4. "The world will little note and long remember what we say here."
5. "Remember Me."

STORIES IN STAMPS

Britain Moves Troops To West African Port

MOVEMENT of British troops, said to number more than 30,000, into Freetown, Sierra Leone, leads observers to predict military action in West Africa is imminent.

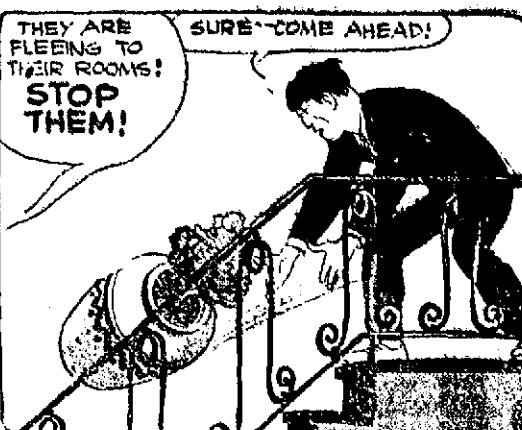

The stamp above, issued in 1938, shows a general view of the harbor that is called the best on the continent's west coast. It can accommodate the largest fleets.

Freetown is only 500 miles from Dakar, French Senegal, which is in the hands of the Vichy government and which the Axis may use as a base in the event of a South American invasion.

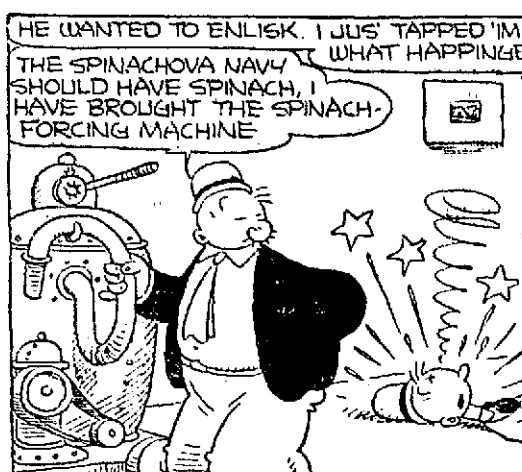

Not only the English are interested in Sierra Leone. American naval authorities were reported to be seeking a base at Freetown to facilitate patrol of the South Atlantic. As yet, however, the N. S. Navy is not represented at the port.

In 1938 the British decided to convert the port into a naval base and built harbor defenses. At that time, tension in the Mediterranean and the possibility of a captured Suez Canal prompted them to guard the Cape of Good Hope trade route to the Orient.

Mr. T. G. Rivers Names Mrs. McIlroy Honoree
Mrs. T. G. Rivers entertained with a bridge luncheon Monday for Mrs. W. K. McIlroy of Dallas. Guests included Mrs. W. C. Strecker, Mrs. R. C. Larsen, Mrs. W. D. Winder, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Breeding, Mrs. Robert La Grone, Jr., Mrs. Comer Boyett.

High score was taken by Mrs. W. C. Strecker, second by Mrs. R. C. Larsen, the traveling prize fell to Mrs. Comer Boyett.

Ten Members at Baptist Circle 2 Meet
Circle number 2, WMU of the First Baptist church, met at the home of the leader, Mrs. J. L. Rodgers Monday afternoon with ten members present. A most helpful devotional was presented by the leader.

The leader appointed committees and discussed plans for personal service during January which were accepted enthusiastically by all. The plan called for a revolving visitation program with a foundational motive of enriched spirituality and love that reached the entire membership.

A social hour was enjoyed by all. Ann and Oliver Adams, Jr., celebrated their birthday party. At ten o'clock Monday morning, Jan. 19, 1942 Mrs. Oliver Adams celebrated the fourth birthday of her little daughter, Ann with a children's party in the Kindergarten room of Miss Marie Purkins.

The small tables, covered with bright cloths, were attractively decorated with glass vases and acropoles, filled with candy for each guest, and a large table centered with two large birthday cakes—one topped with four and the other with two glowing candles. Squares of white cake, topped with an American flag, with Dixie cups of ice cream, marked places at the tables for the following young guests: Joe Beth, Betty, Carolyn Jones, Arthur Jones, Lyman Armstrong, Jr., Larry Martin, Anne McGregor, David and Janet McKinsey, Jan Robinson, Mary Caroline Cox, Dick Broach, Martha Hamilton, Joy Jones, Rufus and Jennie Lou Herndon, Gayle Hicks, Elizabeth Ann Benbrook, Jannette Whitten, Judy Franks, Alan Quinn, Bill Thomas, Jimmie Haynes, Kathryn Spore, Betsy Ross Spears, Patsy Ruth Weakley, Sandra Robins, Al and Ginnanne Graves, Billy Wray, Van Moore, Freddy Jones, Billie Poe, Judy Watkins, Mae McEne and the honorees.

Mrs. R. L. Broach assisted the hostess in serving the guest.

Mrs. Hugh Jones Entertains W. M. U. Circle 5
Circle No. 5 of the Women's Missionary Union of the First Baptist church met at the home of Mrs. Hugh Jones, Monday afternoon with 9 members and 3 visitors present.

Mrs. F. L. Padgett as leader of the group, presided at the business session. Since this was the first meeting of the year, there was no program. Various committees announced their plans for the coming year.

During the social hour the hostess served a delicious salad plate with tea.

A LETTER FROM KENT

CHAPTER XIV

"AN idea a day keeps the sheriff away," Juddy said. "Or am I wrong, Mom?"

"You're wrong," I said. "He was here yesterday."

"What did he want?"

"Family stuff," I said. "Believe it or not that ancestral mistake is worrying about your virtue."

"What business is that of his?"

"Pride of the House of Tambay and all that. He thinks the family on-nah is in danger and that Angel Todd's the triple threat to the Maurie scutcheon."

"If that's all he came for—"

"It isn't. He's all fussed and flustered over Doc and the diggings. In his opinion, the Wandos are so much bull and Doc is really after gold."

She sort of smiled. "Angel's good for what ails me," she said.

It's a fact that since she had the grumps, he was the only one who could make her snap out of it. The theory was that the two of them were working up the Amerind Ethnology course. Well, maybe they were. Anything that kept her from brooding about Tambay Tree was all to the good.

At that, I figured they must have put in some honest toil, for when the Am-Eth test came on, Angel went through it on grease. Juddy was tickled pink. I doubt if she'd really expected him to lick the exam. I thought I'd have a little fun needling Prof. Loren Oliver when he came over for his lunch.

"ANGEL TODD passed his test in your subject, I hear," I said.

Todd's term standing has been below fifty. He passed his test above ninety. What kind of a thissenat does that make him?"

That jarred me. "Are you telling me he pulled a phony?"

"What do you think?" he said.

"What are you going to do about it?"

"Send in his paper to the Board in regular course."

"Nothing happens then?"

"Nothing, probably. It will be passed over. In the interests of the Higher Learning. We need a good right end."

After he'd left, Juddy came in and started to rack the dishes.

"What has Loren Oliver told you about me?" she said after a minute.

"Nothing," I said. "Except a little about your folks."

She stopped and thought some more. Her face was drawn. "All right," she said. "Come on. Let's go over and see him."

Doc put down his hand trowel and came to the gate. She opened up on him.

"Did you write Hendy Kent that I was here?"

"Certainly not," he said, and pretty sharp, at that.

"Who's Hendy Kent?" I said.

"My husband," Juddy said.

The only thing I could think of to say was, "Oh, yeah?"—which didn't seem to fully cover the ground.

"I haven't seen Henderson Kent for several years, you know," Doc said to her. "I never knew him well in college. He was the gilded youth of the place until he flunked out. Did he continue to be a high-flyer?"

"The highest," she said. "I tried to fly with him. It didn't work."

"You knew all about this?" I said to Doc.

"Not all. Part."

"And never opened your face to me?"

"I thought that if Mrs. Kent—"

"Please!" Juddy said.

"—wanted you to know she'd have told you."

"THE good old competition motive. He waved an emerald hoop in front of me and my theory was that I'd better jump through it before some other girl nosed me out. He was gay and good-looking and had all kinds of superficial charm and knew all the pater and the double talk and the cafe-society cliches. I thought that was life. But there wasn't anything behind it."

The Doc shook his head. "It doesn't fit in with my picture of you," he told her. So he'd been carrying a picture of her in his mind, had he? I don't believe she noticed that, but you bet I did. She said:

"It's simple. At that age and in the set I ran with, you think—"

"Oh, well! what the hell! Why not give it a try? It doesn't have to last. And it won't change anything. But it did. It changed me. And I don't like the change."

"At least the venture should have been profitable," he said.

She looked at him thoughtfully. "No, it wasn't even profitable."

"Pardon," he said. "I assumed that money was the consideration."

"So it was. Just another smart saleswoman; a little too smart. I took his money for being his wife. When I stopped being his wife, I couldn't very well take his money any longer."

"Atta sport!" I said. "Then you're not married to him any longer?"

"I wish I knew. He used to write me three or four times a week, drunk or sober, trying to get me back. Then, for a change, he'd talk Reno. I hope he went. Now he's threatening to come down here, but I don't suppose he will. He never does anything he says he's going to do."

"It seems to have been a losing venture all around for you," Doc said. "Unless you count experience as gain."

"The girl looked past him into nothing. 'Not even that, in a way,' she said, but more as if she was talking to herself. 'The whole thing was a flop. I knew what she meant, but I don't think he got it.'

"Let men tremble to win the hand of woman, unless they win with it the utmost passion of her heart," he quoted. I made a note of that one. Good snappy quotations are a specialty of mine.

"That sounds pretty outmoded, doesn't it?" he said. "Yet there may be something in it, even today."

She came back at him with another. "Lucius, romantic love is on the rocks. That's the 1940 version."

"Did you come down here to run away from him?" I asked.

"From everything."

"To see life steadily and see it whole?" That was Doc.

"Things are so muddled," Juddy said. "All I wanted was to be happy." She said it just as though it was the most reasonable wish in the world.

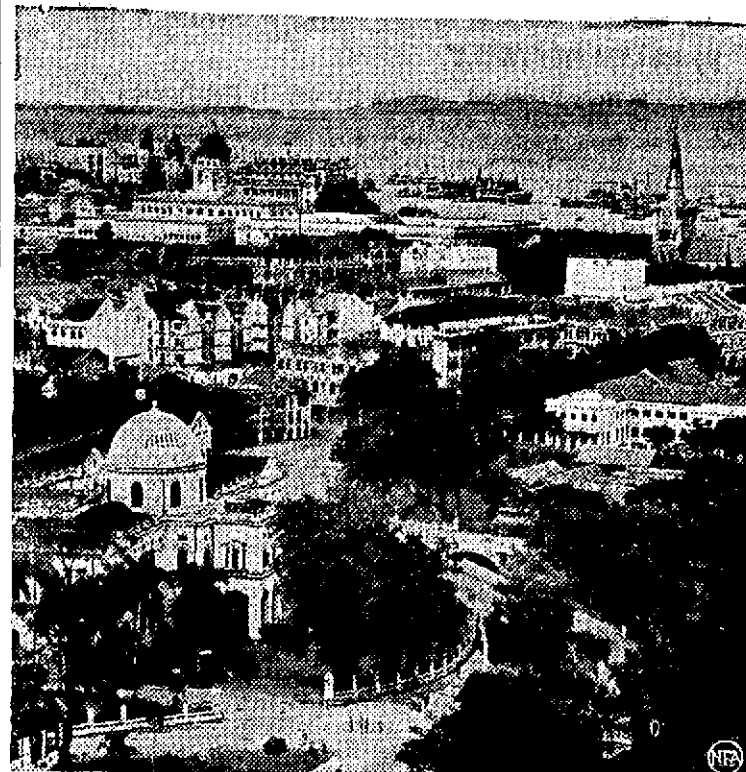

"Is that all?" I said. "Page your fairy godmother. Did you ever happen to notice, pal, that the sun very seldom shines on both sides of you at once?"

"Well, I've got all over expecting too much," she said.

"Don't let yourself," Doc said to her, kind of quick and anxious. "When you give up expecting too much, you give up your youth."

no headway is going to be made while this delusion lasts."

Even in August, when there was no Pearl Harbor, no loss of Manila, Guam or Wake, President Roosevelt's words seemed ominous. After moments of silence, one reporter asked how the President thought the "lead" on this story should be written. Mr. Roosevelt didn't hesitate. He said: President quotes Lincoln and draws parallels.

In the hours and even days that followed, I remember the dozens of times that newsmen and official Washington asked: "Just what DID the President mean?" There were those who said he meant that we were approaching shooting war. There were those who contended he was only speaking figuratively.

But within a week or so, the "quotes from Lincoln" press conference was forgotten completely. It's only now that some are remembering and dragging it out for re-examination in the light of recent events and what now appears to lie ahead.

This Newspaper is Filled With DYNAMITE

Dynamite is a useful substance. It blasts out roads and tunnels, clears stumps, defends us against encroaching enemies.

But misuse it at your own peril! It can blow you into kingdom-come.

Your newspaper is useful, too. It brings you a daily record of what happens around you and an assortment of OPINIONS—to go with its usually accurate FACTS.

But PLEASE do not MISUSE it. From your newspaper you can learn how to divorce a wife, how to rob a bank.

You can learn the opinions of every Communist and every brutal Nazi who makes news. You are told how crooked politicians operate and how to wreck yourself in an automobile.

When you come to think of it, you realize that such news is brought you to forearm and forearm you—so robbers, crooks and dictators CAN'T harm you. And you will admit that such news is absolutely necessary for free men who want to guard their freedom.

Note well that your newspaper contains TWO KINDS of news.

1. FACT 2. OPINION

The facts, good or bad, you cannot dodge. You may change them, as you change public officials, laws, customs, habits every day. But don't deny them or hide from them. That is dynamite.

The opinions, right or wrong, are there because every man HAS opinions. And, in AMERICA, every man has a RIGHT to his opinions. But don't accept every opinion blindly. That is dynamite.

Usually you will find OPINIONS on BOTH SIDES. Weigh them, think about them. You MUST. You are a citizen and a voter. What you and a thousand or a million others DECIDE will decide the fate of this nation. There's PLENTY of dynamite if you decide WRONGLY.

And FACT and opinion aren't merely limited to the news and editorial columns. They are both found in the advertisements also. Just the same as you need to know what all candidates for office have to offer so you can choose between them, you need to know what all merchants and manufacturers have to offer so you can decide how to spend your income to the best advantage.

Dictators do not believe the people can be trusted with all the facts and all the opinions and a free right of choice.

And the dictators are RIGHT—if they want to go on being dictators! Any American newspaper worthy of the name is dynamite—dangerous dynamite—for a would-be dictator; mighty useful dynamite for a man who wants to protect his freedom.

In Germany, Italy, Russia, Japan, a government agency decides what the people shall read and hear. Not so in America. Do your part to preserve the American way of life.

Big Bill for Big Job: Civilian Defense

WASHINGTON—The total cost of the federal government's share of civilian defense for the next year will be around $227 million if the job is done as Mayor La Guardia's boys and girls have figured it out. That $227 million figure hasn't been mentioned very loudly before. One of the bills being considered by Congress mentions $100 million as the original appropriation, but that will merely start things. It will permit the placing of the first orders for the 50 million gas masks and the so far undisclosed numbers of fire engines, ambulances, fire extinguishers, tin hats and all the paraphernalia that a well-organized civilian defense should have.

Idea of the whole program is, first to see that every city of 10,000 or more population in what you might call the target area of the United States has what it takes to care for the civilian population in case of an air raid bombing. This potential target area is roughly a strip 300 miles wide, extending inland from U. S. shores and borders. It may be deeper in some areas like the industrial northeast, and it may be shallower along the mid-continent Canadian border.

If you have been bothered about what the Office of Civilian Defense has been doing since it was created last May, one of the little tasks has been to compile the lists of all this civilian material, to inventory every town in the target area as to its fire-fighting equipment and emergency hurry-up wagons, then to compile the lists of additional firehoses, decontaminators and all such stuff that will make the area safe. The orders are all written. Army and Navy procurement offices have been used to determine where the contracts can be let, and they'll be placed just as soon as Congress gets around to granting the authority and appropriating the money.

No Guns For OCD
Not one cent of these appropriations for civilian defense will go for anti-aircraft guns or shooting irons or after spending Monday with Mrs. Tarlton's sister, Mrs. Dorsey McRae, Jr., and Mr. McRae.

Miss Helen Bowden is in St. Louis this week.

Mrs. F. C. Crow and Miss Mary Matthews motored to Little Rock Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Lewis and Mrs. L. W. Young departed for Dallas Tuesday.

Mrs. Pat Casey is visiting relatives in Texarkana Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Travis Simmons of 615 Fifth avenue, Cornopolis, Pa., announce the birth of a baby girl January 11 at Valley Hospital, Sewickley, Pa.

amunition of any kind. Mayor La Guardia feels his OCD really has an unfortunate name. Because of the "defense" in the name, too many communities have written in to ask that half dozen or more anti-aircraft guns be sent along to them in a hurry.

That isn't OCD's business, and right here is the place to say that the idea of turning over to the Army this civilian defense job or whatever it should be called is one of the silliest ideas ever to get born in Congress. Fortunately, the idea died young. It was largely inspired by a pique against the mayor and a desire to do anything that would get the OCD direction out of the hands of La Guardia and Mrs. Roosevelt. But rule No. 1 for any war is that the Army's job is to fight the enemy and that the civilian population must look out for itself. In that distinction is the simplest possible explanation of what civilian defense really is.

All this $227 million worth of OCD equipment will be bought at the expense of the federal government and given free to the cities. Gas masks will be given to the 50 million people in the target area. The theory is that these are national expenditures which can't be saddled strictly on the utilitarian, and not on the ornamental side. The fire engines will not be shiny or red, but simply light trucks with a hose reel, a pump and the necessary ladders.

Utilities Must Dig Down

Not all the expense of civilian defense is to be borne by the federal government. Public utilities have to supplement their emergency repair crews and the shovel brigades must be armed with tools already munitioned. If OCD were to go out on some fancy scale of buying new pickaxes and such, as some municipalities have advocated, it would take a considerable chunk of steel that should be going to other implements of war.

All the educational work of getting this phase of local co-operation organized has been a propaganda effort that has kept the government printing presses on the hum for months. Forty-five pamphlets, handbooks, instruction sheets and leaflets have been turned out. The average edition of these has been about two and a half million copies. Some of the individual instruction sheets have a 50-million run. OCD now has over 7000 local defense councils with about three and a half million volunteers registered or enrolled or in training. When they get through, there will be about ten million-six million men and four million women.

That's the size of the job.

"One Foot In Heaven"

Mexico's Army Guards Pacific

Troops Pass Through the U. S. on Way to Coast

By MILTON BRONNER

WASH. Service Staff Correspondent. WASHINGTON, Mexico, which thanks to the Roosevelt government's Good Neighbor policy is really a good neighbor, is proving it at the present moment, not only by breaking off diplomatic relations with Japan, Germany and Italy, but also by taking military precautions so that Lower California and its huge Gulf may not be used by enemies of the United States.

"And that is precisely one of the biggest things that has occurred in the Western Hemisphere since the Japs treacherously attacked Hawaii."

In the last World War American authorities had reason to believe that German warships and raiders secretly used the waters of the Gulf of California. In the after years the Gulf has at times been a favorite place for Jap "fishermen."

In the present crisis with hostile airplanes reported off the coast of California, the theory has been that they either based themselves upon aircraft carriers standing some 200 or 300 miles off the American coast or upon such vessels somewhere in the Gulf of California.

The Mexican government is doing its level and full best to see that the latter is not true now and that it may not be true in the future.

It is a tremendous task as a little geography will demonstrate. Lower California is a continuation of the American state of California. It is a peninsula separated from the Mexican mainland by the Gulf of California. It is about 750 miles in length with a breadth varying from 30 to 150 miles.

It is mountainous, with some peaks rising over 4500 feet, and for the most part arid. With the exception of the strip near the U. S. border, it has no railroads and few good roads.

The vast territory is sparsely populated, the last census showing only 95,416, of whom about half were Indians, living mainly by fishing. The lonely coasts on both the Pacific and the Gulf side are broken by many smaller gulfs and bays where ships could find haven and there is also a myriad of islands. The famous inlets are Magdalena Bay on the Pacific ocean side and Concepcion Bay on the Gulf side.

With such a land offering temptations to the enemies if the United States, President Manuel Camacho took prompt action.

Uncle Sam co-operates.

The U. S. just as promptly co-operated, by permitting the passage of a considerable number of Mexican troops through U. S. territory to reinforce the defenses of Lower California. They were to pass in transit over United States territory from Nogales Arizona to Tijuana, Lower California, via San Diego.

At the same time President Camacho appointed the former President, General Lazaro Cardenas, as commander-in-chief of all the Mexican army, air and naval forces in Western Mexico, including Lower California.

Military and naval authorities connect with the U. S. navy and air forces to keep watch and ward in the Gulf of Mexico. The Mexican authorities are leaving only enough troops for proper police purposes.

Soon 80 per cent of the regular army will be garrisoned in western Mexico. Just how many men this means is a military secret. The old Mexican army used to contain about 26,000 troops, but in recent times it has been considerably increased. Fairly large garrisons will be maintained at the cities of Guaymas and Mazatlan, which are important ports on the Mexican mainland on the east side of the Gulf of California. On the eastern shores of Lower California there will be garrisons at Santa Rosalia and at La Paz, capital of the peninsula. On the west coast of Lower California there will be garrisons at Ensenada in the north and at Magdalena Bay far down the peninsula.

Mexica has never maintained large naval forces. The last register showed one coast defense ship, five gunboats and about a dozen coast guard patrol ships. Nearly all of these have now been stationed in the Gulf of California to patrol its waters. How immensely important this is was demonstrated recently when one of the Mexican ships held up two Jap "fishing" vessels at the tip of the peninsula and dinterred the nine "fishermen."

It was said seven of them looked very much like Jap soldiers and the other two had the bearing and education of Jap officers.

Mexican airmen are doing their part in making air patrol over the peninsula and the Gulf. Moreover the Mexican government has indicated to the United States that American airmen can join in this work if the authorities desire to do so.

Bootlegging of Auto Tires

'Big House' May Halt Illegal Tire Handling

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Government officials and automobile association leaders are in a huddle over a problem that already has been reported from numerous sections of the country—the theft and bootlegging of auto parts, tires and even cars.

No sooner had Price Administrator Leon Henderson announced the ration of tires, autos and the curtailed production of replacement parts than the whole country broke out with a rash of petty thievery of tires and parts and the theft (already a felony on both state and federal statute books) of cars.

Officials fear that big-time crooks and racketeers, taking a page from the days prohibition, might try to organize the petty thieves into rings and by wholesale operations seriously undermine the curtailment program.

Henderson's OPA is interested in the problem only in so far as it would through its psychological and morale effect on the driving public, place a stumbling block in the smooth development of tire, car and parts rationing.

Realizing this, the American Automobile Association and several other agencies have asked Henderson to propose a bill to make the theft of tires, parts and accessories a federal offense.

Thomas P. Henry, AAA president, in his appeal to Henderson, said, "The widespread thievery is creating a bootleg market for illicit trade in these important commodities. This situation will develop into worse proportions unless strong measures are taken to counteract it."

This may look fine in print, but reducing it to actual application in everyday prosecution of community and state offenders is another matter. To make the thefts of tires, tubes, parts, too, a federal offense when committed in intra-state traffic, would require a constitutional amendment. The only comparable one we have in the Constitution now is that applying to narcotics.

I don't think the AAA or any other organization or agency really hopes to see any federal law passed which would eliminate this threat against one of the all-out war measures.

What they do hope and expect is that the individual states will take cognizance of the problem and pass laws which to make tire and parts thefts, heretofore for the most part no more than a petty offense, a felony.

In New York State, the legislature already has loaded its legislative guns to prevent this new type of bootlegging. A law has been introduced to make the thefts of even an aluminum hubcap a felony that could land a man in the Big House up the Hudson for many times 30 days.

When a two-by-four hoodlum knows that he is up against a year or more in the penitentiary, there will be none of that sneaking around alley corners with a, "Hi, Mister, how'd you like to buy a fine inner tube—just off the boat from the Dutch East Indies, where they grow the real stuff. It's 100-proof. I wouldn't sell me own mother none of that re-cap stuff, Mister, you know that."

Keeping the Menfolk Happy

Still Number One Job for Women Says Mrs. Sanderson

By ADELAID KERR

AP Feature Service Writer

Women may be playing new roles in defense and world affairs but Julia Sanderson thinks holding their men and keeping them happy is still their most important job.

The chestnut-haired actress and singer is a veteran of the stage and radio. She has had to learn the technique of dealing with both men and women. She also has some definite ideas on how to keep a husband happy and interested, and when I asked her about them, she told me a few.

"One of the most important things is to keep your job after you are married," she advises. "I think a woman who has a career of her own is more interesting to a man. It keeps her vivid and alert and gives her some interests of her own. Married women who do nothing seem to grow rather peevish and petulant."

(Miss Sanderson practices what she preaches. After her marriage to Frank Crumit, with whom she starred in "No No Nanette," she retired. But she didn't remain on the sidelines long. She began a new career in radio and now stars with her husband in "The Battle of Sexes.")

"Another important thing in keeping a husband happy," she says, "is to keep a zipper on your mouth. Women like to express opinions, but men don't care about hearing what they think about everything. A woman can think what she pleases, but she shouldn't say too much.

"The most important thing of all though, is to be a good companion, a good friend. Play with your husband, dance with him, go out with him when he wants to go. Meet his mood. If he is gay, be gay too. If he is quiet, go along with him."

As Miss Sanderson sat in the studio, it seemed to me she would place a husband pictorially as well as companionably. She wore a slim black frock whose bodice was accented with black sequin figures. A trimmed hat topped with black feathers shaded her blue eyes. Bands of diamonds and sapphires blazed on her wrist and a gold chain anklet shimmered through the sheer stocking above her steel-buckled pump.

"There's something else very important in keeping a husband happy," she went on. "Don't try to possess him completely. Let him have a life of his own. If he loves golf or long hours of fishing, let him enjoy them. Men are like little boys, they love to run away and play awhile at their own games. They come home afterward—and they come home sooner if you don't resent and complain about their outside interests.

"And last, but very important. Don't pry. Never try to make a man tell you something if he doesn't want to. Men will keep a secret for awhile. Women will keep a secret for awhile a thing they know quite well they will have to tell you in the end. It gives them a feeling of independence to think they're running things. If you don't upset that, you'll be happier."

Miss Sanderson's career as a wife and radio star keeps her shuttling back and forth between New York and Long Meadow, Mass., where she and her husband live. They bought a house there some years ago to be near Miss Sanderson's mother.

1 (No. 2½) can peach halves, drained
1 (No. 2½) can Bing cherries, drained

Pour syrup from canned pears into saucepan. Add spices, KARO and lemon juice. Cook about 5 minutes. Add whole pieces of fruit; heat again, but do not boil. Remove from heat, and serve hot or chilled. Makes 8 large servings.

KARO adds extra food value as well as extra flavor. It's rich in Dextrose, food-energy sugar.
